DR. CHARLES S. INGHAM
Headmaster of Dummer Academy

DEDICATION

The Senior Class of 1923 dedicate this Year Book to

Dr. Charles S. Ingham

Headmaster of Dummer Academy. For the past year Dr. Ingham has been enjoying a vacation after fifteen years of continuous duty at Dummer Academy. The cheers which shook the commons building, on the evening of his return, were proof enough of how much we have all missed him, and how gladly we greet him and Mrs. Ingham back to Dummer once again.

CARL NESTOR HOLMES

Mr. Carl Nestor Holmes came to Dummer Academy November 5, 1922 to act as head master during Dr. Ing-ham's vacation.

Mr. Holmes received the degree of Bachelor of Science from Dartmouth in 1916. In the fall of that year, he became an instructor of Mathematics at the Fessenden School, West Newton, leaving there in the spring of 1917 to attend the Officer's Training Camp at Plattsburg. At Plattsburg he was commissioned a 1st Lieutenant and was assigned to the 11th Machine Gun Battalion, serving in France with the Fourth Division until his discharge in 1919. He then returned to the Fessenden School, where he remained until last fall.

In coming to Dummer Academy for only one year he faced a very difficult task in taking over the management of the school. The Senior Class feels that Mr. Holmes has been very successful in his difficult undertaking.

A WORLD COURT

It is unbelievable that there could exist an individual in any civilized country who, after living through the years of the late war, should be opposed to any organization, call it what you may, "League of Nations," "World Court," or any other name, that would settle international disputes as each settles its national differences, without bloodshed.

Yet there is a great diversity of opinion, especially here in our own country, not only among our leading men and women, but among the masses. Suspicion, mistrust and sinister motives are attributed to the organizers of such a movement. If, however, our national differences are settled satisfactorily in court by judges, just and true, why could not inter-national disputes be settled in a similar manner, granting justice to all nations, great and small. If such an organization could be formed, governed by international law, what untold misery and wretchedness, the results of every war, would be avoided, and what peace and happiness would be enjoyed throughout the world! What wealth could be used in a constructive way, and what advancement could be made in civilization!

This can never be accomplished only through nations working in concert. The following words of Abraham Lincoln sound like a plea for a "World Court of Nations"

"The man does not live who is more devoted to peace than I am, none who would do more to preserve it. Suppose you go to war you cannot fight always and when, after much loss on both sides and no gain on either, you cease fighting, the identical old questions as to terms of intercourse are again upon you."

"We shall only succeed by concert."

"Let us have peace!"

SENIOR CLASS WILL

Let all men know that we, the class of 1923 of Dummer Academy, Town of Newbury, County of Essex, in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, knowing the grave uncertainties of this our present life, and being still of sound mind and good memory, do make, declare, and publish this our last will and testament:

1. To the Moodyites we present a new supply of cowboy's suits, swords, and a few captives.

2. We will to Mulholland a new "cafeteria" to take the place of the old one which used to stand by the corner of the Turnpike, a place safe from the prying eyes of the faculty.

3. To Bill Madero we bestowe the right to use the back seat of Jackson's car at intermissions.

4. To Don Small we leave a new pillow and a monopoly of Budgell's and Baker's fireplace.

5. To Doc Hinds we leave a Pooh Pooh bird, a new pair of shoes, and our best wishes for a successful basketball season.

6. To Mosely we bequeath a set of boxing gloves and a training book, so that by next year he may annihilate his one time objectionable roommates. Cleland and Mulholland.

7. To the faculty we leave lots of mercy and a butterfly catcher.

8. We bequeath two and one third quarts of Zip for Mosely's face.

("It's off because it's out")

9. Jess Paine reluctantly leaves to Louis Baer his school girl complexion.

10. To Messrs. Skerrye and Webber we leave a book entitled "How to Be Peaceful Though Roommates."

We do appoint Mr. P. B. Skerrye and Mr. W. J. Farrell as executors of this our last will and testament.

In testimony whereof we hereunto set our signatures and seals in the presence of the witnesses on this the twelfth day of May in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-Three.

This is the last will and testament of The Class of 1923.

CLASS PROPHECY

Professor Harry Sperry, lecturer on Aesthetics and Ethics at Yale University, gazed thoughtfully at the glowing embers of his comfortable fire. Outside the wind was howling mournfully accentuating the peace and quiet of the room and the comfort of the fire. As he sat there, the smoke from his cigar curling lazily ceilingward, his thoughts drifted back to his European tour, and he smiled as he remembered the meetings with his old classmates of Dummer.

He recalled the meeting with Jewett, Budgell, and Baker in New York before his departure from this country. They had held a wonderful dinner in honor of the event and parted with a "regular Dummer cheer" as of old. Jewett had become a power on Wall Street, and, even more important, had retained his cherubic coloring with remarkable success; Budgell, in addition to becoming disgustingly fat, had waxed prosperous beyond all reason with Baker as his partner. The two inseparables had almost cornered the leather market, and with the financial help and influence of Jewett they intended to complete the job.

On the boat, the Professor had met Roger Sherman doing a ten mile walk before breakfast, and not looking at all like the eminent jurist that he was. He was on his way to England, ostensibly to attend some important conferences, but in reality to escape domestic difficulties and secure a little vacation. Roger had told of the old "stone-crusher," Joe Brock, coaching a great foot-ball team, and happily married—his wife doing splendid work with the Junior school. And Johnny Morris was in charge of all play-ground and physical culture work in the schools of Newburyport.

The Professor smiled as he recalled the Dummer reunion held upon finding that Phil Cleland was the chief wireless operator on the boat. Phil had nothing to do from day to day but experiment with wireless, and make the acquaintance of all the beautiful girls on the boat, in which pursuit he was greatly aided by the amazingly brilliant uniform in which he paraded. Through his kindness, the eminent jurist and the Professor of Aesthetics and Ethics had listened with mingled emotions to the very able sermon of the Reverend Rowland Smith, broadcasted to all those who cared to hear within a radius of five hundred miles. The three classmates had recalled pictures of the "Smitty" of old giving away ice-cream to the poor and needy in the Commons and in Peirce Hall.

And it was Phil Cleland who tore down to them, arms waving wildly, to let them know that the old speed king, Paul Thomas, had won his biggest race at Miami. Tommy had won every automobile race in the country since acquiring a devilish, airplane-engined creation that could make two miles a minute without even being urged. The three had staged a cheering section at once, with "Sherm" leading and all three bellowing themselves hoarse. As it was late at night with the foghorn blowing, they were not put in irons.

And at the American Embassy in Paris, the Professor had bumped squarely in to "Pep" Purinton, the distinguished Senator from Vermont. "Pep" was enjoying a much needed vacation at the expense of the government. And the Honorable Parker Purinton had been able to give his old classmate access to places, people, and records otherwise beyond reach. The two had visited the "L'Ecole Des Beaux Arts" to see the two fine paintings by Henry Ahl, who had been studying in Paris for four years and was doing fine work.

It was while at the gallery that they met the old class jester, "Jesse" Paine. But what a Jesse! Jesse was in the tow of a large, portly lady, severe of countenance, and determined of speech, who was quite evidently dragging poor Jesse to all the galleries in Paris. She left Jesse to care for four children while she inspected the gallery. Jesse greeted the two old time friends with keen delight, glad to secure a little respite from the rather overpowering personality of his wife. The two old classmates were genuinely sorry for their friend but could do little more than offer their hopes that he would be able to do some of the things that he had planned. The professor tried to get Jesse to go to Egypt with him but it was quite impossible for Jesse to break away from the family ties.

The professor had gone to Egypt alone. And as the events of that trip came back, the Professor laughed outright. Once more he walked the streets of Cairo and Alexandria; and travelled up and down the Nile gathering material for his book. And once again it was sunset with a long caravan starting out for the distant horizon, and on the biggest camel of them all, singing a little song to himself, his long lean body swaying rhythmically to the lope of his beast, was Jimmie Gardiner. Jimmie was off on another trip to the Upper Nile to add to his laurels as an archaeologist in general and as a collector of Egyptian coins in particular. The Professor had accepted Jimmie's invitation to join him and had spent two wonderful months with Jimmie in a new and weird land.

The embers of the fire glowed dully. Outside the world was asleep, unless, indeed, Jimmie was on his camel in far away Egypt. The wind whistled and shrieked by the house and through the bare trees. Professor Sperry leaned forward and spread his hands to warmth of the coals.

"The old class of 1923 has done mighty well, after all," he mused.

1922 FOOTBALL REVIEW

The football team of 1922 was an eleven which will not be easily forgotten in the athletic annals of Dummer Academy. The team was victorious in four games, tied another, and was defeated in one game, which, however, it refuses to acknowledge as a defeat. Roger Sherman of Winchester, Mass., captained the eleven and played a sterling game at quarterback. He was chosen All Essex County Prep School quarter by the Haverhill "Gazette."

Dummer Academy 19—Beverly Textile School 0

The seventh of October saw the opening of the Academy's football season at South Byfield. The Dummer team took the field as follows: Terhune le; Simonds lt, Brock lg, Forsberg c, Sperry rg, Thomas rt, Dalton re, Captain Sherman qb, Osborn lhb, Morris rhb, Ferdinand fb. The game was slow owing to the ragged playing of the teams, the wet field and ball.

* * * * *

Dummer Academy 18—Roxbury Latin 6

In the first game the line had been noticeably weak in several places. Terhune had been shifted to right end and Judd had taken his place on the left wing. This was a big improvement as Judd proved a star at catching forward passes. The center of the line which had been weak in the first game showed a big improvement due especially to Forsberg.

Dummer Academy 12—Danvers High School 19

October the twenty-first, the Academy was defeated by Danvers High School. The officiating was wholly unsatisfactory, as a result of which, athletic relations between the two schools were severed.

* * * * *

Dummer Academy 12—Pinkerton Academy 7

On November 4th, Pinkerton Academy visited South Byfield and was repulsed by the score of 12 to 7. It was the first time in three years that Dummer had triumphed and much celebrating followed the victory. The fast backfield men counted for long gains and the whole line played brilliantly.

* * * * *

Dummer Academy 7—Country Day School 7

Dummer Academy went down to Country Day School with dreams of a 25 to 0 victory and came back with a 7 to 7 tie. Although we outrushed our opponents three to one, fumbling, together with overconfidence caused our failure. Dummer fumbled five times and three of these were inside the ten yard line.

* * * * *

Dummer Academy 16—Powder Point 6

The Academy's eleven was never in better trim than when it journeyed down the South Shore to Duxbury and brought back victory to the tune of sixteen to six. It was the season's final game and the triumph was a fitting climax to the best season the school has had in several years. Like the game with Pinkerton, it was hard fought and the whole team played well.

1922--1923 BASKETBALL REVIEW

The day after Thanksgiving the basketball candidates reported to Coach Reagan for their first season in the New Gym.

Coach Reagan had four letter men, Captain Purinton, Sherman, Ferdinand and Brock to build on. Morris, Hinds and Simonds, new men, were great assets to the team.

We played a practice game with a boy's club in Beverly just before going home for Christmas vacation and won by a good margin. This game, which was not hard, showed that we had the beginnings of a good team.

On the thirteenth of January we played a team composed of the Alumni from whom we won by a decisive score. Everyone felt that we were going to have a fine season but on January 17 the team went to Salem where they were badly defeated, not only because Salem had a fine team but because the floor was unusually large.

On January 27 we won easily from DeWitt Clinton School of Boston.

At this point in the season Scarlet Fever broke out and it was necessary to close school for three weeks. During this time we had games scheduled with St. John's Prep, Salem, Portsmouth, and Allen School which we were unable to play.

After school reopened we were able to play three more games. Two of those games we played with Essex Aggies, losing one and winning one. The third game was with Rivers School which we won.

Considering how badly the season was broken up a great deal of credit should be given to Mr. Reagan for the fine showing the team made in the few games that were played.

1922--1923 TRACK REVIEW

There were five track meets scheduled for this season but two of them had to be cancelled because of the forced vacation in February. This vacation hindered the track men in their training and as the track had to be shoveled every few days, the men got very little outdoor practice before the opening meet with Roxbury Latin.

This meet, in spite of the hardships, was quite successful. We lost by only one third of a point, the score being 29 2-3—29 1-3. This was the closest meet with Roxbury for many years.

Smith ran very well and won both the 600 and 1000 yard runs handily.

Judd broke the school record for the high jump with his jump of five feet six inches. He probably would have won the event but by the terms agreed on before the meet the bar was put up three inches at a time and so was tied by a Roxbury Latin man.

The second meet was with Gloucester High School. We made the trip down there and had to run on a short, narrow, canvas paddle track in the Gloucester Y. M. C. A. The track was so narrow that only two men could run at a time and consequently they had to run against time, the man with the best time winning. Gloucester won with 39 points to our 29.

The third and last meet was also with Gloucester, but was held on our own track. A wet snow storm just preceded the meet which left the track very slippery. The Gloucester men, accustomed to running indoors, had no spiked shoes so several slipped and fell while running. We won the meet with 51 2-3 points to their 16 1-3. It would probably have been closer if the track had been in better condition.

Judd's put of thirty six feet six inches of the twelve pound shot beat the school record, but not being on the home floor it was not recorded as such. He easily won the high jump at five feet two inches.

Chao jumped well, clearing the bar at five feet which is over his height.

We were invited to compete in several interscholastic meets but neglected to do so because they interfered with baseball.

On May 8th the letter men elected their captain for the year 1923. Randall Judd was elected by a great majority, and as he was one of the highest point winners he is a very competent man to hold the position.

BASEBALL PROSPECTS 1923

Any school that can start the season with six varsity men has a right to feel optimistic. And while Captain Thomas is reticent about himself, he is exceedingly cheerful about the rest of the team.

Captain Thomas, veteran of last year's pitching staff will carry the brunt of the pitching burden. With his old team-mate, Roger Sherman, catching, and his pitching arm and batting eye functioning as of yore, he will keep the cheer leaders busy.

Captain Thomas waxed enthusiastic about the team and its prospects:

"The outlook for the team this year," he said, "is much more encouraging than that of last year. To begin with, the team starts with six regulars, but with very few likely candidates from the student body. The first game resulted in a defeat for Dummer, but gave us a fair idea of what we had for material. In this game one of our most promising candidates for third base and pitcher, Johnny Morris, was badly spiked.

"Now, after our first three games in which we have treated the 'ever elusive pill' with much disrespect, we are fairly well started, though handicapped by the loss of Purinton.

"Purinton was playing a wonderful game at third base and gave promise of being one of the best hot-corner guardians that Dummer has ever had.

"At first base, Judd, a Brookline lad, seems to be a fixture. Second base is very well filled by our fleet footed and ever smiling "Doc" Hinds. Last year he batted first on the squad. "Red" Haley has taken over the shortstop birth and promises to make good. He is a hard worker and one of our best batters, but is a little too nervous to do his best work. Morris who has partly recovered from his spiked leg, is closing a good job at third, and is seconding Thomas in the box. He is not a tip-top batter, but he is a good, hard-working fielder. Behind the plate, we have last year's veteran, Captain Sherman of the eleven who manages to hold them from our assortment of wild pitchers, and to keep up the spirit and fight of the team. He is a hard worker in the field and at the bat. The field is patrolled by a newcomer, 'Swede' Forsberg, who is improving rapidly; Ferdinand, who is as fleet as ever, and 'Grimes' Gardiner, who is fighting hard all the time."

SCHOOL LIFE

DANCES.

The first dance of the year was held in the Lang Gymnasium, on the 21st of October.

The dance was only an informal affair and but few of our friends were invited. Everybody enjoyed themselves thoroughly in spite of the fact that we received the only defeat of the season that afternoon with Danvers.

Potter's first-string Orchestra furnished the music, Austin's of Newburyport acted as caterers, and a committee consisting of Thomas and Ferdinand managed the affair.

The hostesses were Mrs. Ingham and Mrs. Farrell.

FOOTBALL DANCE

In honor of the members of the Football Team, the second dance of the year was held in the Lang Gymnasium, on December ninth. The committee of "Dibby" Dalton and "Joe" Brock deserve credit for the able management of this dance. The hall was decorated in good taste by our "interior decorators." Speeches were made by Roger Sherman, captain of the eleven, and Ernest Simonds, captain-elect. Music was again furnished by Potter's of Peabody, who were unusually good this time. Names of the team's members, emblazoned on large cards by an able amateur printer, were placed on the wall, while the members themselves enjoyed the occasion to their souls content in dancing. Altogether it was one of the most praise-deserving of the year's dances.

SAINT PATRICK'S DANCE

This affair held in the gymnasium on March 17th, was not as well attended as former dances, on account of the great difficulty in transporting our fair guests to the school. With the fine music furnished by Potter's Orchestra, however, everyone had a good time, despite the small crowd. Jewett, Morris, and Brock were in charge of the affair, and the hall was prettily decorated with a canopy of green and white streamers overhead and St. Patrick's Day decorations on the wall. Refreshments were served.

JUNIOR PROMENADE

The annual Junior Promenade, given this year by the class of 1924, was held as usual in the Lang Gymnasium. The orchestra, consisting of seven pieces played exceptionally well, putting everyone in good spirits. The dance was certainly one of the best during the year. The committee, consisting of Jackson, Terhune and Ferdinand, decorated the gymnasium with evergreen, banners, and colored lights, giving a very pleasing aspect to the large hall. Several of our guests arrived early on Saturday in order to see the annual base-ball game with Roxbury Latin School which we won, much to their delight. Some of them remained over Sunday at the school. Altogether the dance was very successful, and certainly held its own when compared with Junior Prom's of former years. At midnight a flashlight was taken of the students and their guests by Edmund Berry, the class photographer.

Mrs. Carl Holmes, Mrs. Walter Farrell and Mrs. Davis Maraspin were the hostesses.

The first of the inter-class athletic contests this term, was the Senior-Upper Middle Track Meet, in which the Upper Middlers were the victors by a score of 43 to 28. Randall Judd '24 proved to be a star for the Upper Middle Class, while Morris and Sherman starred for the Seniors. The Seniors took their revenge, however, when they won by a score of 29 to 13 in a basket ball game with the Upper Middlers on the day before going home for the Easter Vacation. This was a fast game, some of the Varsity men being on both teams, and there was some pretty individual work. Sherman, Morris, and Purinton starred for the Seniors, while Simonds and Ferdinand played well for the Upper Middlers. It is hoped that at a later date another mortal combat may be staged by these two classes.

In Memoriam

ARTHUR BARBER EAKINS

We, the masters and boys of Dummer Academy, shall never forget our little comrade,—we loved him.
His happy face, his vibrant spirit, his love of fun will always remain with us.

Our hearts go out to his guardian and relatives. We share with them their sorrow.
